APPLETONS' NEW PUBLICATIONS

SIRIUS

A new book by ELLEN THORNEYCROFT FOWLER, author of "Concerning Isabel Carnaby," "The Farringdons," "A Double Thread," and "Cupid's Garden." Uniform edition. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A new book by the author of "Concerning Isabel Carnaby" and "The Farringdons" needs no introduction. All readers of the best fiction know her epigrammatic humor, her adroitness in the suggestion of character, and her invention of original situations and social climaxes. Her new volume is a gallery of vivid miniatures of various phases of English life. The exquisite delicacy, flashing wit, keen sarcasm, and sparkling repartees, that made the previous stories so fascinating, are amplified in their effect here by the variety of characters against which they play.

THE WILDERNESS ROAD

A Romance of St. Clair's Defeat and Wayne's Victory. By J. A. ALTSEHLER, author of "In Circling Camps," "A Herald of the West," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Mr. Altsheler pictures the most thrilling scenes of the movement for expansion, when at the end of the eighteenth century the men of Kentucky and the old frontier were pushing westward and northward to gain new territory. A fascinating story of love and aspiration runs throughout the vivid scenes on the frontier and in the wilderness.

THE PLAY OF MAN

By KARL GROOS, Professor of Philosophy in the University of Basel, and author of "The Play of Animals." Translated, with the author's co-operation, by Elizabeth L. Baldwin, and edited, with a Preface and Appendix, by Prof. J. Mark Baldwin, of Princeton University. 12mo, cloth, $1.50, net.

The results of Professor Groos's original and acute investigations are of peculiar value to those who are interested in psychology and sociology. The playful manifestations affecting the child himself and those affecting his relations to others have been carefully classified, and the reader is led from the simpler exercises of the sensory apparatus through a variety of divisions to inner imitations and social play.

THE PASSION OF LOVE HIS LETTERS

By JULIEN GORDON, author of "Mrs. Clyde," "A Puritan Pagan" etc. New edition. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

In these brilliant and passionate letters there may be read a revelation of love which will move the imagination and touch the heart of every reader.

THE WOMAN'S BOOK OF SPORTS

A Practical Guide to Physical Development and Outdoor Recreation. By J. PARMLY PARET. With many illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.00, net.

This is a practical guide by a practical writer for the amateur sportswoman. Golf, lawn tennis, sailing, swimming, bicycling, and basket-ball have each their chapters, and the devotee of any of these sports will find here much that will be instructive.

NEW EDITION

INSECT LIFE

By JOHN HENRY COMSTOCK, Professor of Entomology in Cornell University. New edition. With full-page plates reproducing butterflies and various insects in their natural colors, and with many wood engravings by Anna Botsford Comstock, Member of the Society of American Wood Engravers. 8vo, cloth, $1.75, net.

Professor Comstock's book has taken the first place among popular guides to the study and identification of insect life. These colored plates reproduce insects which he has selected and arranged, and the reproduction has been under his supervision. This edition in colors of his authoritative and standard work is necessary for all students of outdoor life.

A PRACTICAL GUIDE-BOOK

APPLETONS' DICTIONARY OF NEW YORK AND VICINITY

An alphabetically arranged index to all places, societies, institutions, amusements, etc. With maps of New York and vicinity and illustrations. Square 12mo, paper, 25 cents, net.

The 1901 edition of this standard guide contains a number of new illustrations, and a new map showing the rapid transit route.

GRAUSTARK

Seven weeks after publication, strictly on its own merits, ranks in New York City among the SIX BEST-SELLING BOOKS. One bookseller after another has added its name to his list and practically all have now reported it. Reorders have been constant, a most satisfactory condition from the booksellers' standpoint.

This sale is being repeated in the other large cities, where it is steadily reaching to the front. The jobbers' reorders also show that it is finding favor in the smaller towns.

Dealers who desire a book that they can satisfactorily recommend to their customers are requested to examine this work.

The author is G. B. McCUTCHEON, the price $1.50, and the full title "Graustark, the Story of a Love Behind a Throne."

Joscelyn Cheshire.

A Story of Revolutionary Days in the Carolinas.

By SARA BEAUMONT KENNEDY.

HIS is a dashing and real story that keeps a tight grip on the reader's interest from the start. Mistress Joscelyn is an altogether unusual heroine, charming, but keen as a sword blade, and so ardent a Tory as to drive Master Richard Clevering, torn between love and patriotism, well-nigh to despair. The pictures of life in the prison hulks of Walabout Bay, more dreaded by the Continentals than death itself, are intensely dramatic.

Illustrated by HARRY C. EDWARDS.

Price, $1.50.

The Diary of a Freshman.

By CHARLES M. FLANDRAU,

Author of "Harvard Episodes."

DELIGHTFUL tale relating the adventures of a youth, fresh from a Western home, who is suddenly dropped into the turmoil of an opening year at a great Eastern college. It makes a most entertaining volume and gives outsiders a new glimpse into the mysteries of college life. Mr. Flandrau makes good use, too, of the humorous possibilities of his tale, and no reader can fail to find amusement in his pages.

Price, $1.50.

IMPORTANT BOOKS

To be Published May 29.

China and the Allies

By A. HENRY SAVAGE LANDOR.

A Notable Work in Two Volumes.

MR. HENRY SAVAGE LANDOR, well remembered for his thrilling experience in Thibet, was present during the whole of the recent military operations in China. He was in Tientsin when it was taken, entered Peking with the relieving forces, and was the first European to enter the Forbidden City as a guest by the side of the Russian General. Holding no official position, and bound by no official etiquette, he was perhaps the only eye-witness at liberty to report the whole of what he saw. Mr. Landor's knowledge of the German, French, Italian, Chinese, and Japanese languages proved of the greatest value in enabling him to obtain information at first hand. The value of this narrative is greatly enhanced by accurate maps and many illustrations from photographs and drawings.

"Will this prove another 'Rudder Grange'?"—New York Tribune.

The Abandoned Farmer

By SYDNEY HERMAN PRESTON,

Author of "The Green Pigs," Etc.

A NEW book in the field which Mr. Stockton explored in "Rudder Grange," but which since then has been neglected. It describes, in a delicious vein of humor, the experiences of a young newspaper man and his wife and boy on a small farm which they leased near the city. No one who laughed over the adventures of the hero of Mr. Preston's "Green Pigs" need be assured of the rich humor or of the exceptional literary quality of this new book.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish in October Rudyard Kipling's great novel "Kim," which has been running as a serial in McClure's Magazine, and has been pronounced good by many who know.

F. M. BUCKLES & Co. will publish May 25 "The Mysterious Burglar," by George E. Walsh, a story of the present day by a successful magazine contributor. It is said to remind the reader of Edgar Allan Poe.

HERBERT S. STONE & Co. are to be congratulated on the success of "Graustark," by G. B. McCutcheon, which seven weeks after publication, without special pushing, ranks among the six best-selling books in New York City. It is a story of love behind a throne written with care and full of good situations.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish May 25 Winston Churchill's long-expected novel entitled "The Crisis," described in the issue of May 4. They have now ready "Henry Bourland; or, the Passing of the Cavalier," a novel of interpretation by Albert Elmer Hancock, which introduces characters who loved and sorrowed and enjoyed during a critical period of the American Revolution. Henry Bourland was the Southern cavalier who disappeared after the Civil War by the evolution of American politics.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have just published a number of notable books. Among the very best are "The Book of Genesis in the Light of Modern Knowledge," by Dr. Elwood Worcester, and "Lincoln and Other Poems," by Edward Markham. Their newest fiction includes "The Inheritors," by Joseph Conrad; "Jack Racer," by Henry Somerville; "Sons of the Sword," by Margaret L. Woods; "Valencia's Garden," by Mrs. Schuyler Crowninshield; and a collection of short stories entitled "Love," written by talented men and women. This house also publishes the Temple Molière in French, of which two volumes are now ready.

D. APPLETON Co. have just issued "Sirius," a new book by Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler, devoted to a collection of brilliant short stories of English life, full of wit, sarcasm, and dramatic elements; "The Wilderness Road," a thrilling romance of adventure along the "old frontier" in the last days of the eighteenth century, by J. A. Altscheler; and a new edition of Julien Gordon's striking novel, "His Letters." They have also ready "The Play of Man," a scholarly psychological and sociological study, in which Professor Karl Groos follows out his previous investigations on "The Play of Animals;" "The Woman's Book of Sports," by J. Parmly Paret, covering all subjects of interest to the amateur sportsman; and new editions of Comstock's important manual on "Insect Life," and of "Appleton's Dictionary of New York and Vicinity," brought up to 1901.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will shortly publish a notable contribution to the present Chinese question in "China and the Allies," by Henry Savage Landor, the well-known explorer and journalist, and hero of thrilling adventures in Tibet. Mr. Landor was present during all the recent military operations in China, and his powers of observation and description, with his thorough linguistic knowledge, give remarkable interest and value to his story of the recent Chinese crisis. His narrative will fill two octavo volumes, and will be enriched by many maps and numerous illustrations, with 16 full-page colored plates. They will also publish a delightful book for summer reading in Sydney Herman Preston's "Abandoned Farmer," describing the rural experiences of a young newspaper man as proprietor of a small farm, leased as a summer experiment. The story is lightly told and full of amusing incidents.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The writer's argument is that a very large percentage of all sorts and conditions of people on Manhattan Island lead an artificial life. The result being a peculiar condition of mind, body and soul, which he describes under the title of "Newyorkitis." "Newyorkitis," he says, "is a disease in which mind, soul, and body have departed more or less from the normal."

Prof. Groos's aim is to present the anthropological aspects of the same subjects treated of in his psychological investigation of animal play, published in 1896. Prof. Groos, who agrees with the followers of Weismann, develops the great importance of the child's play as tending to strengthen his inheritance in the acquisition of adaptations to his environment. The influence of play on character, and its relation to education, are suggestively indicated. The playful manifestations affecting the child himself and those affecting his relations to others have been carefully classified, and the reader is led from the simpler exercises of the sensory apparatus through a variety of divisions to inner imitations and social play. The biological, aesthetic, ethical, and pedagogical standpoints receive much attention from the investigator.

Jones, Dora M. A soldier of the king: being some passages in the life of Mr. John Gifford. N. Y., Cassell, 1901. 8+284 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The sub-title reads "Sometime major in the service of His Majesty King Charles I., and afterwards minister of a congregation of Christ's people at Bedford." John Gifford, the subject of this novel, is portrayed in the "Pilgrim's Progress" as "Evangelist." This is the first time he appears as the hero of a novel. He was a wild cavalier before he became a preacher, the adventures of his earlier, unregenerate days forming the subject of "A soldier of the king." The scene is laid chiefly in Maidstone, in the seventeenth century.

Deals with the life of the bee, treated in Maeterlinck's own peculiar vein. The book is by no means technical; passages of the highest lyrical beauty abound, while reflections, analogies and poetical digressions are not wanting.

Marnan, Basil. A daughter of the veldt. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1901. c. 2+393 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story opens in Cape Colony, South Africa, in 1874. In this year made noted by a Basuto massacre, occurs the incident which influences the whole narrative. Twenty years are passed over after this the story being taken up in 1894. The aim is to illustrate Boer social life. This is done through an extremely ignorant family sunk in the very depths of immorality. One young girl brought into the family by accident, is the one redeeming feature of their story.

Marx, Karl. Value, price and profit; addressed to workingmen; ed. by his daughter, Eleanor Marx Aveling; introd. and annotations by Lucien Sanial. N. Y., New York Labor News Co., [1901.] c. 13+74 p. D. cl., 50 c.; pap., 15 c.

An epitome, written by Marx himself, of the first volume of "Capital."

on the present status of Christianity and its doctrines; with an introd. by J. V. Morgan. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1901. c. 1900. 44+544 p. O. cl., $2.50.

A volume made up of original essays, prepared expressly in response to the editor's appeal, by eminent theologians in England and the United States, for the purpose of showing the status of great questions at this period and how far religion and theology have been influenced by the progress of scientific research. The questions discussed represent almost all aspects of theology and of the ministry. Care has been taken in arranging the subjects so as to give the discussion a systematic completeness.

Oldfield, Susan H. Some records of the later life of Harriet, Countess Granville, by her granddaughter. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1901. 14+286 p. por. O. cl., $5.

"The letters of Harriet, Countess Granville," edited by her son, the Hon. F. Leveson Gower, and published in 1894, were all written during her married life, the most brilliant part of her career. "But to me," says her granddaughter, "who knew her almost exclusively [after her husband's death] it has seemed that some record of the years of her widowhood was required to complete the picture of her most beautiful and unselfish life, and that this would not be without interest even to those who never knew her personally." The present volume is an endeavor to carry out this idea.

Onions, Oliver. The compleat bachelor. [New issue.] N. Y., F: A. Stokes Co., [1901.] c. 1900, 1901. 6+196 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Oxenham, J: Our Lady of deliverance. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1901. c. 6+334 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The novel, which is dedicated to Captain Alfred Dreyfus, tells a story similar to his. The hero is a French officer, who has been tried for treason. His deliverer is his beautiful sister, who is aided by a rich Scotchman who falls in love with her portrait at the Salon and then seeks her acquaintance.

Peterson, Maud Howard. The potter and the clay: a romance of to-day; il. by Charlotte Harding. Bost., Lothrop Pub. Co., 1901. c. 7-348 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.
A young American girl from a frontier fort finds herself in England with the two British lads whom she had known in childhood, now grown to manhood, as officers in the British army and suitors for her hand. The contrasting natures of these two men, the characteristics and motives of the girl, are remarkably drawn; and the way in which love acts and reacts makes the story, indeed, as it has been called, a romance of conscience.

The story opens in the island home of the Blennerhassett in the spring of 1805. The scene then shifts to Pittsburg, and the reader follows Aaron Burr on his trip down the Ohio River, in the course of which he seeks out Harman Blennerhassett, and by appealing to his self-love and ambition enlists him in his political enterprise of founding an empire in the southwest, which was to include Mexico and part of the United States. The sad results of this scheme to all involved in it, with a tender love-story, complete the story.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 18, 1901.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

BOOKS AT THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

It is a pity that the book production of the United States is not more adequately represented at the Exposition now opened, at least formally, at Buffalo, which will become in a few weeks a thoroughly representative, in most departments, and highly attractive exhibition of what has been accomplished in America, in both the closer and the larger application of the word America. Messrs. Rand, McNally & Company are entitled to an appreciative word for the promptness with which their interesting exhibit has been made ready, being as it is the pioneer in that division of the Manufacturers' Building devoted to Liberal Arts. Their exhibit will be paralleled in due time by individual exhibits from a number of firms, but we regret to say that many, if not most, of the houses concerned most largely in general publishing, and, therefore, the most representative in literature, are conspicuous by their absence from the catalogue and from the buildings. There has hitherto been not a little difficulty in obtaining adequate representation of the American book trade at international exhibitions, but as a rule patriotic, if not commercial, motives have at last induced publishers to take part in the great world's fairs, sometimes in collective and sometimes in individual exhibits. In no case has there been so uncredit-able a representation of the publishing trade as a whole as is the case at Buffalo—and this is most to be regretted, in view of the fact that we are asking our neighbors from the other American countries and our newly-acquired possessions, near by us, to pay us a visit and see what has been done for civilization, particularly by this country itself. In such a display books ought not to be conspicuous by their absence.

It is to be hoped that the American Publishers' Association, which for the moment has set itself to the single task of reforming discounts and making fairer prices for books, may develop as the years go by into a thoroughly representative organization befitting the importance of the publishing trade. We may then hope that by the help of such an association there may always be organized comprehensive and creditable representation of the publishing trade in such world events as the great fairs. It is true that there is not the same pecuniary motive to publishers as to manufacturers of machinery, etc., to put their best foot forward on such occasions, but there is nevertheless a large patriotic motive, and, to some extent, a commercial motive that should be operative and effective. The absence of an adequate library representation at Buffalo is also to be deplored, as little is to be found there, except the American Library Association exhibit prepared for Paris and included in the exhibit of the New York State Library. When the time comes to prepare for the St. Louis fair we trust that books may be in evidence as they should be as best proof of progress in the arts of civilization.

THE issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for May 25 will be "Summer Reading." This number is furnished to booksellers with their imprint, to be by them distributed to their customers who are selecting books to take with them, and for use throughout the summer season. In addition to its well-known features of extracts from books, pictures and the valuable lists of fiction, miscellaneous and nature books, "Summer Reading" will contain an article on the books which have made record as "big sellers," giving the number of volumes that have been sold and in most instances the portraits of the writer of each of these phenomenally successful books. There will also be an article on "Nature Reading for Young People," giving books on outdoor life and nature, specially adapted to the younger members of the households. Booksellers desiring such editions should at once make known the fact, as we cannot undertake to supply demands after the WEEKLY is once off the press.

A REVOLUTION IN TYPE-CASTING.

THE London Times, in a recent issue, describes a new process of type-casting that reads like a fairy tale. Briefly, it is performed by a rotary machine capable of producing 60,000 types in an hour, as against the average 3000 types cast in an hour by the ordinary type-casting machine now in use. While the ordinary machine casts only one letter at a time, the new machine casts a whole alphabet in proper proportion. A single one of the new machines in full operation produces half a million types a day. Distribution, therefore, becomes a waste of time. The advantage held out by the project, however, consists not merely in economy of time and money in the composition of a book or newspaper, but also in the printer's having at his disposal a perfectly clear, sharp, undamaged surface from which to obtain an impression every time he puts his work on the press. The types, we learn from another source—The British and Colonial Printer—"are most accurately cast and finished, and although cast at a phenomenally high rate of speed, are quite equal in appearance and wear to any type cast in the ordinary way. . . . The prices charged are only about half what other foundries charge."

For four centuries type has been cast singly from single moulds; and, although the product has been improved in many ways, the speed of production has left much to be desired. In every instance the apparatus used has been confined to the simplest form of reciprocating motion. The original hand mould, formed of two parts, separated from each other by the two hands, was eventually hinged together, and so hinged it is in one form or another in use to-day, side by side with machines of an advanced character invented in recent years.

The new method, which has now come into practical operation, has been designed upon entirely new lines. The motion is a continuous rotary motion, as distinguished from the intermittent and reciprocating. The rotary type-casting machine stands in relation to the machines it is superseding precisely as the rotary printing press stands to König's reciprocating cylinder press, with which the Times was printed in 1814. In both cases the machines are automatic; and in both the rapidity of production is limited mainly by considerations of prudence.

It is not easy to convey to the mind of an ordinary person the difficulties from an engineering point of view that have stood in the way of arriving at this result. Starting with the necessity that the 60,000 letters or thereabouts forming a page of the Times must all be parallel with each other, and uniform in face and height, this precision of manufacture has to be maintained in the face of a heat that in ordinary circumstances would make the successful working of a machine impossible. Experts watching the inventor during his twenty years of tedious experiment have invariably regarded the reconciliation of the thermal conditions with the delicacy of the mechanism as the most difficult part of the problem. The solution, however, has been arrived at. The expansion and contraction of the metals have been prevented by a system of cooling that is under complete control; and the machine works with ease and smoothness, and almost without noise. It was by means of the arrangements for the conduction of the heat that the engineering difficulties were overcome.

The invention is the work of neither an engineer nor a typefounder, but of one, who, being a journalist and wholly ignorant of typefounding and engineering, perceived a want and imagined a means of satisfying it. Mr. Wicks, who has devoted twenty years to the realization of his idea, had his attention first directed to the subject by seeing some of his own manuscript being set up at a composing machine in the Times office thirty years ago, when he also became aware of the difficulties attending the distribution of type in a form suitable for the composing machines. Had he been a typefounder or an engineer, he would probably never have approached the subject on the lines he did, for those lines are diametrically opposed to all the conditions which have controlled the casting of types up to the present time; and, had he been an engineer, he would have known that tools necessary for the construction of his machine had not then been designed. The main problem of producing a disc of twenty inches in diameter capable of working on a shaft without variation at the periphery to the extent of a thousandth of an inch was enough to discourage some of the best engineering firms in the country, especially when they found the disc was to revolve within a few inches of a bath of half a ton of molten metal, and was to fit to a hair a piece of curved iron still nearer the heat. Special tools, metals, and lubricants were required, and, above all, special workmen. The result, however, has been attained, and it constitutes an improvement which may possibly revolutionize the whole system of type-casting, and ultimately the production of books and periodical matter.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

MRS. HENRY DUDENEY'S "THE THIRD FLOOR."

It seems it will now be impossible to effect the simultaneous publication exacted by the irksome exigencies of the International Copyright Law of Mrs. Henry DudENEY's new novel "The Third Floor." The book is about to be published in England by Methuen & Company, and negotiations for its issue in the United States are not yet effected.

BAIREUTH MONOPOLY ON "PARSIFAL."

FRAU COSIMA WAGNER has addressed a letter to all the members of the Reichstag asking an indefinite prolongation of the Baireuth monopoly on "Parsifal." She is willing to renounce the prolongation of copyright on the other operas of Wagner if her request as to "Parsifal" is granted. She asserts that a certain impresario offered her 1,000,000 marks for the "Parsifal" rights for a term of five years, but that she refused to accept the proposal.

MUSIC TRUST TO CHANGE COPYRIGHT LAW.

REPRESENTATIVES of several of the largest popular music publishing firms in the country met in Chicago on May 6 to perfect the organization of a trust which will control the publication and the sale of sheet music throughout the country. Eight of the largest firms in the United States have signified their intention of consolidating, and it is expected others will join after the combine is effected. The object in combining the music publishing business of the country is to put the business under one management. The publishers will not seek to raise prices, but to raise the quality of the music placed on the market. Common benefit is expected to develop for the authors, the publishers and the buyers. What they want mainly is to elevate the standard of the music placed on sale. They do not wish to freeze out the small dealers, but they do want to weed out the great quantity of music which is unfit for sale. They will dictate to publishers as to what shall be produced. As soon as the association is perfected they expect to bring about a change in the copyright laws.

SUIT AFFECTING INSTALMENT BOOKBUYERS.

A CASE of considerable interest to publishers and purchasers of books sold on the instalment plan is reported in a recent issue of the Buffalo Courier. The suit was brought by James G. Ardrey, the Rochester representative of the publishing firm of George Barrie & Son, of Philadelphia, against Ralph Bowman, of Rochester, to recover a balance of over $40 alleged to be due on a contract to purchase the Barrie subscription edition of "Balzac," in fifty-one volumes, priced at $2.50 per volume. According to the Courier, the controversy hinged upon the question whether or not a "limited edition" of the Balzac had been contracted for, and whether that condition had been fulfilled by the publisher. The testimony is said to have shown that in 1896 agreement was made by the defendant, Bowman, to buy the set in question, this set being number seventeen of the edition; that when thirty-one volumes had been received the defendant decided to sell the set, and advertised it with this purpose as a "limited edition" in The Bookman; and that as a result of this advertisement he learned that another book-buyer, William Hamilton, of New Jersey, was the owner of a similar set, published at the same time, and also numbered seventeen. Mr. Bowman thereupon refused to accept delivery of succeeding volumes, claiming that the terms of the contract had been violated by the simultaneous issue of two editions, one bound in red and another in green, each containing half of the plates of the original edition de luxe, of which there were 110 volumes, with 250 etchings, selling at $10 each. Testimony was given to the effect that the green and red editions, copies of which were shown in court, were identical in paper, character of plates, and other details, with one or two variations in the illustrations. The publishers, however, claimed that they were two separate and distinct editions. The verdict given, after five minutes' deliberation by the jury, was "no cause for action."

BOOK EXHIBITS AT BUFFALO EXPOSITION.

THE representation of the book trade at the Pan-American Exposition is decidedly meagre. In all but twenty-three names are included under the division Books and Publications in the Department of Liberal Arts, and of these six refer to periodicals. The publishing houses exhibiting are American Book Company, American Bible Society, C. W. Bardeen, Concordia Publishing House, Educational Publishing Company, J. W. Gibson Co., D. C. Heath & Co., W. R. Jenkins, G. H. Kinter, G. & C. Merriam Co., McGraw-Marden Co., Practical Text-Book Co., Rand, McNally & Co., Ware Brothers, and John P. Wisser. Other exhibitors are Edward Lyman Bell, Columbia University, The International Monthly, Marine Record Pub. Co., N. Y. Lumber Trade Journal, Photo Era Pub. Co., Railroad Gazette, and St. Louis and Canadian Photographer.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF PUBLISHERS.

THE fourth International Congress of Publishers will be held at Leipzig from the 10th to the 13th of June. America will be represented by The American Publishers' Copyright League, The American Publishers' Association, the Music Publishers' Association of the United States, and The Canadian Publishers' Association. The president of the Congress is Albert Brockhaus, of Leipzig. The Congress will be divided into three sections: A, Copyright; B, Book Publishing and Bookselling; C, Music Publishing. All questions will be first submitted to their proper section, and will not be discussed in full meeting unless they have been specially referred for this purpose by the special section. A full report of the Congress will be given in the WEEKLY.

FRENCH UNDERSSELLERS VS. PUBLISHERS.

AN unsuccessful effort to fight the Association of French Publishers has just been cabled to the N. Y. Herald. A provincial bookseller named Le Goaziou refused to conform to the publishing syndicate's decision that dealers should henceforth never allow purchasers a larger discount than twenty per cent. M. le Goaziou continued to give larger discounts till the big firms in the Association, MM. Hachette, Belin, Delagrave and Larousse refused to supply him with books. He sued nine publishers under the French law which forbids conspiracy with a view to creating a monopoly or unduly increasing the price of merchandise. M. le Goaziou has lost his case and must pay the costs. The court took the view that books could not be classified as ordinary merchandise.

This case is naturally of great interest at the moment, as it covers circumstances bound to occur in this country also.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

R. H. RUSSELL has just ready "Wishmakers' Town," by William Young, with an introductory note by Thomas Bailey Aldrich; and "Prince Ahmed: the Fairy Peri Banon," a tale for younger folk from "The Arabian Knights Tales," with frontispiece designed by Henrietta Amsden.

GINN & Co. issue a revised edition of Salust's "Catiline," edited by Prof. James B. Grenough, of Harvard University, and M. Grant Daniell. Only the introduction of the first edition is retained, otherwise this is a new book. Long quantities have been marked through the text and in the new notes copious references are made to five grammars.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish Sydney Herman Preston's "The Abandoned Farmer" on May 29. The author is a Canadian, and the reputation he made with his inimitable "The Green Pigs," which appeared in Scribner's Magazine, has created a local demand which has resulted in the sale of a Canadian edition of "The Abandoned Farmer" in advance of publication.

J. F. TAYLOR & COMPANY have ready "The Game of Squash," by Eustace Miles, amateur tennis champion of England and the United States, profusely illustrated and heartily recommended by George Standing, United States champion racquets and squash. They will also issue shortly "A Drone and a Dreamer," by Nelson Lloyd; and "The Van Dwellers," by Albert Bigelow Paine, author of "The Bread Line."

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHING Co., Middlebury, Vt., will issue June 16 a philosophical novel by Joseph Battell, entitled "Ellen; or, the Whisperings of an Old Pine." The book is said to demonstrate that a large part, if not the larger part, of science as taught today in all the schools and colleges is erroneous. It insists upon the special creation the Bible teaches, and proves logically that the principle of evolution is not true. Illustrated with pictures of Vermont scenery.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just issued selections from Padre Isla's version of Lesage's "Gil Blas," which in simplicity of language and idea and in real human interest adapts itself to the wants of the beginner. It comprises a large vocabulary of every-day words and expressions very useful to students of the Spanish language. The selections and notes are the work of Prof. James Geddes and Dr. F. M. Josselyn, of the Romance Department of Boston University.

OF Oliver Onion's "The Compleat Bachelor," which the F. A. Stokes Company has just published, we can only say here that it is one of the best little volumes of its kind that has come out of England in a long while. Its fun is wholesome and genuine, it has breeding from first page to last, and the little story it tells is fresh. This bachelor is a nice fellow, with the dearest of sisters, whom he teases most ingeniously when she thinks that she is guarding from him her growing affection for the youthful soldier who is to propose to her; and in the end he himself joins the ranks of the benedicts—which means that he becomes a compleat bachelor. The dialogue is clever throughout.

THE publication of "Home Thoughts," which will appear on May 25, was suggested by the many requests that the essays which (under the above title) have attracted so much favorable notice in the New York Evening Post, of whose Saturday supplement they have been a leading feature, should be reprinted in a form which might give them permanence. The interdependent relations of husband and wife, parent and child, and the broad field of domestic government, give the chief themes. They seem to have met a want, and to have achieved a success of affection among those who were anxious to raise the standard of family life to its highest plane. They are eminently the product of thinking and living. Experience, not theory, is their basis. A. S. Barnes & Co. are the publishers.

DODD, MEAD & Co have just issued "A Dream of Empire; or, the House of Blennerhasset," a novel by William Henry Venable, dealing with the plan of Aaron Burr to found an empire in the Southwest, which was to include Mexico and part of the United States; "Her Majesty's Minister," by William Le Queux, a curious chapter of secret history in the form of fiction; "The Crow's Nest," by Mrs. Everard Cotes (Sarah Jeannette Duncan), an account of a delightful summer in the Himalayas at government headquarters; and "The Life of the Bee," by Maurice Maeterlinck, translated by Alfred Sutro, a book about bees treated in Maeterlinck's peculiar manner and full of lyrical gems.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. have just issued "Mononia," a pleasing Irish love story, by Justin McCarthy. The hopes and fears and attempts for Ireland's freedom, and the dire failures that culminated at Ballingary are told in a manner which cannot fail to give an intimate insight into the struggle of the "Young Ireland" party. No one is so fitted as Justin McCarthy to write of this period. They have also ready "When Eve Was Not Created and Other Stories," by Hervey White; and "Theology at the Dawn of the Twentieth Century," essays on the present status of Christianity and its doctrines, edited, with an introduction, by the Rev. Dr. J. Vyrnwy Morgan.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will have ready immediately Mrs. Olive Thorne Miller's "Second Book of Birds," which extends her delightful "First Book of Birds" by studies of the wren, crow, sparrow, blackbird, lark and other familiar birds to the number of thirty. This house also promises a very interesting book in Dr. Azel Ames' "The Mayflower and Her Log." The author is an enthusiast and an antiquarian of great learning. He has studied the history, model, rig, charter, officers, crew, passenger lists, provisioning, lading, etc., and has reconstructed the "log" of this famous little vessel's first voyage to America. Needless to say that the Riverside Press will give this important volume its appropriate setting.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish the latter part of the present month a novel by Mrs. E. L. Voynich, author of "The Gadfly," a book which stirred up widespread discussion a few years ago. The title of the new novel is "Jack Raymond," and its publishers believe that it will create scarcely less of a stir than did its predecessor. It exhibits Mrs. Voynich's literary skill and thought in ripened form, and is especially noteworthy for its character analysis. The story is a study in temperaments, and particularly of the figure of an obstinate and wilful boy. The discussion of a certain moral issue is done with courage, yet extreme delicacy. The first edition of the book will be large, and the publishers will issue it in striking form. A new edition of Dr. T. M. Rotch's "Pediatrics," an authoritative work on children's diseases, 5000 copies of the first edition of which were sold before the appearance of the work, will be issued shortly. The work has been rewritten and reset, and will contain a number of additional handsome colored plates.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale" the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents a line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office should either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Rudyard Kipling's

Greatest Novel,

KIM.

A NEW NOVEL BY THE AUTHOR OF "RICHARD CARVEL"

THE CRISIS

By WINSTON CHURCHILL

"RICHARD CARVEL," the author says, was written as the first of a series of novels, which, while in no sense sequels or interrelated in any way, have a distinct historical sequence, as pictures of American life at different periods.

In that book we followed the character of the Cavalier, both in the colonial society of Maryland and the fashionable life of London prior to and during the early days of the American Revolution.

The scenes of "The Crisis" are laid in St. Louis, nearly a century later. The heroine of the story, Virginia Carvel, a great-granddaughter of Richard Carvel, serves to connect the stories in interest. The hero, Stephen Brice, is a young New England lawyer seeking fortune in the Southern city.

Among the many characters in the historical setting of the story we meet Grant, a poor farmer—later, the greatest general in the army; Sheridan, president of a small street-car line—later, also, a conspicuous and picturesque figure in the history of his time; and Lincoln, a struggling country lawyer—later as president in our greatest national crisis.

"The Crisis" has eight charming illustrations by HOWARD CHANDLER CHRISTY. Its size is a crown octavo, containing about five hundred pages.

Cloth, gilt top, price, $1.50

The publishers have printed 100,000 for the first edition

RICHARD CARVEL is now in its 375th thousand. It is uniform with "The Crisis" in style and price.

"'Richard Carvel' stands forth alone of all the great successes of the past year as a thoroughly good piece of workmanship . . . the only one which can hope for any permanence in American literature."—Literary Review (Sept., 1899).

ANOTHER NEW NOVEL IS

Henry Bourland

The Passing of the Cavalier

A Novel of Interpretation

By ALBERT ELMER HANCOCK

In this book the author has departed from the conventional method of the historical novel. The interest is fixed not so much by a rapidly moving series of adventures, as by the characters who, with their loves, joys, sorrows and tragedies, symbolize the human forces at play in a critical period of American History, the reconstruction period in the South.

The Biography of Henry Bourland typifies the Southern Cavalier whose social ideal was suppressed after the war, by the progress of evolution in American politics.

A POWERFUL NOVEL.

The Romance of Gilbert Holmes.

By MARSHALL MONROE KIRKMAN.

SELLING BY THOUSANDS.

"The Romance of Gilbert Holmes" will find a permanent place in twentieth century literature. It is remarkable for the purity of its English; its choice and rhythmic diction; its profound character analyses, and its charming nature descriptions—unsurpassed in our language. The exquisite love story that runs through its pages makes the book appeal to the taste and sympathy of all mankind.

The author is the first writer to enshrine our national heroes, Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis, in the legendary lore of our country; to portray them free from the incrustations and scars of politics; to speak of them as they were—tender and true; to reach their inner lives, showing their lofty and ideal aspirations. He strips from them the ceremonies in which superficial writers and the cold historian have hidden their personality. He speaks of Lincoln as the poet and man, and of Davis in his youth, as the magnificent and chivalrous soul he was. So, too, he portrays the renowned Sac Chieftain, Black Hawk, in colors as vivid as those Cooper would have used.

"The daring venture of introducing these men in a romance has been crowned with success."—The Philadelphia Press.

"Told with captivating power."—Rt. Rev. WILLIAM E. McLAREN, Bishop of Chicago.

The Whisperings of an Old Pine

A philosophical novel by Joseph Battell, author of "The Morgan Horse and Register," "The Horse," "Money and the Money Power," etc., etc.

Not since Copernicus, when he attacked and overthrew the Ptolemaic system of astronomy, has so-called science been so roughly handled as in this work. For this novel demonstrates that a large part, if not the larger part, of science as taught to-day in all the schools and colleges in the world is entirely erroneous. In this criticism is included besides many minor features, all the undulatory theories, so-called. Instead of these absurd and impossible theories, it is shown that there is but one law in the domain of nature by which things are made; sound, heat, light, magnetism and electricity, being no exception, but formed precisely as all things else by the combination of matter, in its different elements and proportions.

These truths are made so clear that they will be universally accepted, and will force the reconstruction of science upon new lines. The old text-books will have to go.

The work also shows logically and unanswerably that the principle of evolution, as taught by scientists, is not true, but instead that of special creation as the Bible teaches.

The book is dedicated to the American people, who are thus made the jury of decision for questions of so great moment to all.

Elegantly illustrated with 71 half-tone pictures of Vermont scenery. Complete in one volume, neatly bound, 850 pages. Price $2. Usual discount to the trade. For sale by all booksellers. Address American Publishing Co., Middlebury, Vermont.

EBEN HOLDEN

BY IRVING BACHELLER $1.50

REV. J. M. PULLMAN, D.D., says:

"The tide has turned against the so-called realistic fiction. We celebrate the success of a sound and wholesome idealism, glorifying common life. After the long reign of morbid studies of the morbidities of humanity, the success of 'Eben Holden' shows the hunger of the people for a bright, clean, sympathetic story that ends well and leaves a good taste in the mouth."

A CAROLINA CAVALIER

BY GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON
ILLUSTRATED BY C. D. WILLIAMS $1.50

A historical romance of love, loyalty and fighting in the Carolinas during the British invasion of 1780.

"As a love story it is sweet and true; as a patriotic novel it is grand and inspiring. We have seldom found a stronger and simpler appeal to our manhood and our love than this historical romance."—Home Advocate, Philadelphia.

The POTTER AND The CLAY: A ROMANCE of TO-DAY

BY MAUD HOWARD PETERSON
ILLUSTRATED BY CHARLOTTE HARDING
12mo, cloth, rough edges, gilt top, $1.50

A strong and forceful novel. The motive is love versus loyalty. The characters are unique, the plot is puzzling, and the action is dramatic. Readers of the advance sheets have pronounced it a romance of rare strength and beauty. It is by a new writer of great promise; the scenes are laid in America, Scotland and India; and the story is wonderfully vivid and absorbing.
